Excerpt from Adrift in Dixie, or a Yankee Officer Among the Rebels: With an Introduction

Pressing on through the wood, we soon came to its outer edge, and saw dense masses of men, in brownish-gray, with glittering bayonets, and a multitude of blood-red, star-crossed battle-ags drawn up directly in our front. Here and there a battery was hurling fire and smoke; and away to the left, moving forward in unison with us, was a long line of blue, among which the Rebel shot and canister were bursting with fearful rapidity. N ow and then a man fell out of the ranks; but the great mass moved swiftly on, steady and grand, as the ocean-wave moves upon the shore.
