This book centres around three different areas; management control, organisations and information systems - in order to understand what is actually going on and to make sense of management control questions.

Management control techniques used today could in many cases be traced back to industrialisation. With the help of computerised information systems, the speed and detail with which a manager could get a hold of important information has increased. Today, it has become even more important to be able to choose what information to work with and that the context in which it should be used is understood. Organisational sense-making is in many ways an interesting and important path to take in order to do this.
